Bienvenides a todes! Welcome to all!

I am Anthony Cruz Pantojas and I am elated to be the Humanist Chaplain at Tufts. I am excited to meet you, and to explore the possibilities of coming together on campus. You are most welcome here!

The Humanist Chaplaincy is entering its eighth year of existence and tending to the needs of our ecosystem has never been more important. Our current social, political, and religious realities are being challenged with such force and persistence that it requires a bold response—one that we are capable of, and that Humanists are uniquely positioned to respond to. Our community practices mutual support, radical inclusion, and a commitment to openness and care. We are here for each other, and we are here for you.

Let wonder, imagination, and the expansive desire of freethought serve as an invitation to spend time with us. It doesn’t matter if you’ve never heard of Humanist or freethought traditions, you always have a place here.

En conjunto (In solidarity together),

Anthony Cruz Pantojas
Humanist Chaplain

The Tufts Humanist Chaplaincy creates space on campus for everyone to come into connection and collaboration about life’s big questions, especially those who consider themselves non-religious or outside of traditional religion and might not have that space otherwise.

Program Spotlight: Death Café

Death Café is an annual event hosted by the Humanist Community at Tufts and the Humanist Chaplaincy. We invite members of the Tufts community to gather to share a meal, eat cake, and discuss our ideas about death. By gathering, we aim to embrace the reality of death, and connect deeply about meaning in life. Within health and safety guidelines, we were able to continue the tradition in spring semester. Participants stopped by Goddard Chapel in the afternoon to pick up a cupcake and discussion questions, and the event took place later that day over Zoom. We had an outstanding turnout of over 60 people, and many students reported back that they were able to have meaningful conversations with people that had been strangers just an hour before. The small group discussions were facilitated by members of the Humanist community, and we ended the event with closing remarks from former Humanist Chaplain Walker Bristol.

“HCAT has provided me a beautiful community, unfor- gettable memories, and the opportunity to reflect on myself, my faith, and the world around me.”

- Zoe Bair, A22

“Every week, HCAT has given me a comfortable space to reflect on my thoughts and experiences with a group of kind and thoughtful people. Whether we connected over our shared or differing ways of relating to the world around us, every meeting creates a place to share what is on your mind.”

- Lacey Walls, A24
